

Global Justice Paradigm and Practice

*"Where there is no justice,
there can be no secure peace."*

- Aung San Suu Kyi
Nobel Peace Prize Winner

Spend a day exploring the nature of global justice.

How do we define the term "global justice?" Is it an abstract construct or a deeply personal aspect of the human experience? What role do we – or should we – play to confront global injustice, and what is the best approach?

These are some of the questions that we will address in our dialogue together. Come bring your wisdom and experience to our community of learning as we seek a clearer path to justicemaking from the local to the global.

Date: Saturday, March 20, 2010
Time: 9 - 4:30PM
Place: First Unitarian Church
SW 12th and Salmon, Portland
Eliot Center, Rm. B202
Fee: $35-65

To register, please go to <http://www.pcgj.org/programs.html>

or

Contact us at pcgj@clear.net